Briefing record: attendance list

This sheet records that a briefing took place: when, with whom, with which contents. It does not record that it was sufficient. The European Commission states that no certificate is needed and that organisations can keep an internal record of trainings and other guiding initiatives (AI literacy Q&A, retrieved 23 October 2026; guidance, not law). This sheet is such a record. Format, minimum duration, repetition and retention are not prescribed by any source consulted.

Business	Example Electrical Ltd
Date, duration	6 November 2026 · ____:____ – ____:____
Conducted by	The owner
Form	☐ meeting ☐ walk-through of the policy ☐ one-to-one ☐ online
Target group	Office
Policy version	23 October 2026

One sheet per target group: the duty asks to consider prior knowledge and context, so a briefing that is the same for everyone fits only if everyone does the same.

Contents covered (tick)

- ☐ The business's own usage policy, section by section (§ 1 to § 9)
- ☐ The permitted tools and access; why private accounts are not used for work (§ 1, register)
- ☐ What never goes into a tool, and the rule of doubt (§ 3, poster)
- ☐ Two or three use cases from the business, worked through together (§ 2)
- ☐ Typical failure patterns: invented figures, names, deadlines, references in the correct format; what is checked before use (§ 5)
- ☐ The reporting channel, and that the report itself has no consequences (§ 8)
- ☐ When and how to label, if the business publishes AI content (§ 7, checklist)
- ☐ Who is asked in case of doubt (§ 9)
- ☐ Business-specific contents, e.g. the tool used in daily work, examples from this group

Participants

No	Name (Office, 6 November 2026)	Function	Policy received and read	Signature
1			☐
2			☐
3			☐

No	Name (Office, 6 November 2026)	Function	Policy received and read	Signature
4			☐
5			☐
6			☐
7			☐
8			☐
9			☐
10			☐
11			☐
12			☐
13			☐
14			☐

This sheet is kept for five years

Next briefing on every new tool and once a year

Date, signature of the person conducting the briefing

This sheet records that a briefing took place: when, with whom, with which contents. It does not record that it was sufficient. The European Commission states that no certificate is needed and that organisations can keep an internal record of trainings and other guiding initiatives (AI literacy Q&A, retrieved 23 October 2026; guidance, not law). This sheet is such a record. Format, minimum duration, repetition and retention are not prescribed by any source consulted.

Business	Example Electrical Ltd
Date, duration	6 November 2026 · ____:____ – ____:____
Conducted by	The owner
Form	☐ meeting ☐ walk-through of the policy ☐ one-to-one ☐ online
Target group	Field staff
Policy version	23 October 2026

One sheet per target group: the duty asks to consider prior knowledge and context, so a briefing that is the same for everyone fits only if everyone does the same.

Contents covered (tick)

- ☐ The business's own usage policy, section by section (§ 1 to § 9)
- ☐ The permitted tools and access; why private accounts are not used for work (§ 1, register)
- ☐ What never goes into a tool, and the rule of doubt (§ 3, poster)
- ☐ Two or three use cases from the business, worked through together (§ 2)
- ☐ Typical failure patterns: invented figures, names, deadlines, references in the correct format; what is checked before use (§ 5)
- ☐ The reporting channel, and that the report itself has no consequences (§ 8)
- ☐ When and how to label, if the business publishes AI content (§ 7, checklist)
- ☐ Who is asked in case of doubt (§ 9)
- ☐ Business-specific contents, e.g. the tool used in daily work, examples from this group

Participants

No	Name (Field staff, 6 November 2026)	Function	Policy received and read	Signature
1			☐
2			☐
3			☐
4			☐

No	Name (Field staff, 6 November 2026)	Function	Policy received and read	Signature
5			☐
6			☐
7			☐
8			☐
9			☐
10			☐
11			☐
12			☐
13			☐
14			☐

This sheet is kept for five years

Next briefing on every new tool and once a year

Date, signature of the person conducting the briefing